Astellas Pharma Inc. is a signatory to the United Nations Global Compact which demonstrates our existing voluntary support for achieving sustainable growth, including our respect for internationally proclaimed human rights and our desire to ensure that we are not complicit in human rights abuses. In June 2020, Astellas Pharma Inc. was included in the FTSE4 Good Sustainability Index for the ninth consecutive year which includes human rights and labor standards as part of its selection criteria.

We know that slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labor and human trafficking (collectively referred to as “Modern Slavery” in this statement) is a global and increasing challenge for governments and business.

2. Our Existing Policies on Slavery and Human Trafficking

As a business we recognise our responsibility to respect human rights and manage the risk of Modern Slavery within our own organisation and supply chain. We have, therefore, set the following positions:

- The Astellas Group Code of Conduct states our commitment against forced labor and, in the selection of business partners, their commitment to human rights and labor standards.

- The Astellas Position on Human Rights, which emphasizes and expands on our commitment to human rights and high labor standards, was disclosed in April 2017. This is a commitment that supports embedding respect for human rights throughout the Astellas Group.
Astellas’ Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) Materiality Matrix identifies ‘Human rights in labor’ as one of the ‘Most Important’ material issues in a scale of ‘Important’, ‘Very Important’, ‘Most Important’.

The Astellas Business Partner Code of Conduct references the human rights of workers and specifically provides that business partners shall not use forced, bonded or indentured labor, involuntary prison labor or child labor.

Astellas also has a speak up culture. Astellas personnel are required to promptly report any known or suspected violation of the Astellas Group Code of Conduct or other illegal or unethical behavior or business practice. Therefore, if there are any concerns relating to Modern Slavery these can be raised in confidence without fear of retaliation directly to a manager or through independent third party and internal whistleblowing helplines.

3. Risk Assessment and Due Diligence Processes

Reflecting the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGPs), our activities to combat Modern Slavery, described below, are risk based and will continue to correspond with the level of risk identified. We have undertaken or begun the following risk assessment and due diligence processes in our business and supply chains during the period:

- Astellas continues to implement a Third Party Lifecycle Management (TPLM) program. The TPLM program is to ensure compliance with the requirements which must be met throughout a third party business partner relationship, so that Astellas is appropriately managing risk throughout the lifecycle of an engagement with respective third party business partners. These programs are managed by risk expert departments, which are separated from operational business functions. The TPLM program includes as a risk domain compliance with labor regulations and human rights.

- As part of the TPLM program, Astellas conducts questionnaire surveys on significant business partners in our supply chain and assesses them based on their answers before entering into an agreement. Astellas continuously assesses, mitigates and monitors business partners’ inherent risk based on the surveys. To date, there have been no negative answers to the critical questions regarding human rights issues.

- In June and July 2019 Astellas conducted Global Ethics & Compliance 2019 Employee Survey to better understand the Astellas culture and behaviors covering a speaking up culture which includes human rights and fair labor matters and identify potential areas for enhancements to operational excellence and potential risks.

- In the year ended 31 March 2020 there were no significant human rights issues reported through whistleblowing helplines.

4. Measuring Effectiveness – Performance Indicators

In order to monitor the effectiveness of the steps we have taken to seek to prevent Modern Slavery taking place in our business and supply chains we will continue to:

- Review the responses to the questionnaires received from business partners;
Monitor Modern Slavery concerns raised with whistleblowing helplines;

Develop a corrective and preventative action plan, including auditing, where we assess that there may be a heightened risk of Modern Slavery at specific business partners.

During the year under review performance indicators did not identify any heightened risk of Modern Slavery.

5. Training

In order to raise awareness about the risks of Modern Slavery within our own organisation and supply chain and to ensure that employees understand company policies and commitments, we have taken the following step:

- Astellas provides an e-learning program to introduce the Astellas Group Code of Conduct which states among other things our commitment to respecting human rights including the prohibition of child labor and forced labor. Full-time directors, officers and employees worldwide are required to take this program.

This statement was approved by the board of directors of Astellas Pharma Inc. on 4 August 2020 and by the boards of directors of Astellas Pharma Ltd. and Astellas Pharma Europe Ltd. on 3 and 22 July 2020 respectively. Astellas Pharma Europe Ltd. and Astellas Pharma Ltd. have delegated signing of the statement to Astellas Pharma Inc.
