

Astellas Pharma Inc.: Donation of Six Wheelchair Vans by Employee-Run Social Contribution Fund “Flying Star Fund”

Tokyo, October 17, 2012—Astellas Pharma Inc. (Tokyo: 4503, “Astellas”) announced that the “Flying Star Fund,” a social contribution fund run by its employees, has decided to donate six wheelchair vans to six welfare facilities in Japan utilizing Astellas’ matching gift system under which all donations from employees are matched by a corporate donation of the same amount. Donation of wheelchair vans under this fund has been continuing since 1997 as a social contribution activity on a scale of several vehicles being donated annually. With this donation, the number of donated vehicles will stand at 171*¹. The fund’s name “Flying Star” is the name of the Astellas’ corporate symbol meaning “a beautiful shining star moving toward the future.” The Flying Star Fund was launched in September 1996, primarily by employees aiming to make a sustainable social contribution, at however modest a level. Its objective is to contribute to the improvement of people’s health and welfare. Employees freely participate in this fund at their own discretion. Approximately 5,500 Astellas Group employees currently contribute to the fund. Members of the fund allocate funds of 100 yen every month from their salaries. Astellas matches that amount and makes annual donations based on it.

Of the vehicles to be donated this time, three are microvans*² with the following wheelchair-adapted design: the wheelchair is hooked up by a belt hook to an electromotive winch that surely pulls the wheelchair up the built-in ramp. The other three are minivans*³. These vehicles have basically the same features as the other three but can carry two wheelchairs. The selected recipient facilities include facilities that support the autonomous lifestyles of physically handicapped people and work places that cater for such people. The donated vehicles are planned to be used as regular transportation for people traveling to and from the facility, transport for excursions and other such functions.

Furthermore, the Flying Star Fund donated a total of 2 million yen this year to NPO Japan Good Toy Committee, Japan CliniClowns Association, Japan Hospital Clowns Association and Make-A-Wish of Japan. The donated funds will be used for activities operated by these groups such as the “hospital caravans” that travel from hospital to hospital with toy boxes and clown events that bring out smiles from the faces of hospitalized children struggling with illnesses.
