Letter from our President

From a cancer patient being cheered up by a care package...to students welcomed to their school with a bright mural...to a family not worrying about a meal when a child is hospitalized – this is how our employees changed tomorrow for so many in the last year. At Astellas, our commitment to improving the lives of others is at the core of what we do. And our employees are at the heart of this commitment. We strive to be kind to one another, and to the communities where we work and live.

Last year, some of our employees served on the frontlines during an unprecedented hurricane season, which devastated multiple communities. Employees across the company readily volunteered to travel to the affected areas, making Astellas one of only four companies nationwide to deploy coordinated employee responder teams to disaster relief efforts.

This response was made possible through our employee volunteerism time off program, which provides full-time employees five days of paid time off per year to volunteer. Every year, our employees continue to increase their level of service to the community – over 2,000 employees in the Americas participated in our global day of service, Changing Tomorrow Day, in 2017.

I'm proud of our team's efforts, which is why I'm pleased to share our Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) report card which outlines how we gave back in key focus areas as part of our Living SMART® social responsibility initiative.

I look forward to building on this momentum and to continuing to help those in need.

Best regards,

Percival Barretto-Ko

President

At Astellas, we recognize our responsibility extends beyond our medicines, so we strive to build a brighter future for our patients, our people, our community and our partners. The Living SMART[®] framework maximizes the impact of the Astellas USA Foundation ("Foundation") and our CSR efforts by aligning under three priority focus areas and creating opportunities for Astellas employees to volunteer with organizations the Foundation supports.

The Living SMART[®] framework concentrates our philanthropic and corporate efforts across three pillars: Health and Well-Being; Science WoRx[®], the company's commitment to Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Education; and Disaster Relief.

In 2017, the Foundation provided nearly

$2 million

funding

25 grants

to organizations that support the three Living SMART[®] pillars

Astellas employees volunteered more than 16,000 hours

in the community in 2017–

raising our total employee volunteerism hours to more than

Providing Disaster Relief

The Foundation aims to help communities prepare for disaster and respond immediately to ease the burden of those most affected. The Foundation provides funding for disaster response efforts while Astellas employees support these efforts through volunteerism.

2017 Examples Include:

- The Foundation and Astellas worked together to train and send ten employee volunteers as part of the Red Cross Disaster Responder Program to aid hurricane victims in Houston, Texas and Orlando, Florida to aid in the recovery. In addition, 60 Astellas employees were also trained to be deployed when disaster strikes in the future.
- Took immediate action in the hurricane relief efforts to provide funding to Americares to help deliver critical medications and to the American Red Cross to help provide meals and supplies.
- Purchased and installed smoke detectors in 18,000 homes in Chicago as part of the Red Cross Home Fire Campaign.

“I was so proud of our Astellas team. There were many different levels of employees from across many functions, and it didn't matter what the Red Cross asked us to do – we did it as a team... Everyone should take a step out of their comfort zone and try something like this. It was an amazing experience.”

Enhancing Health and Well-Being

The Foundation helps to deliver access to health and well-being to people of all ages and to enrich the quality of care for people living in the communities we serve. Our focus aligns with the United Nation's Sustainable Development Goals aimed at achieving healthy lives for all. In 2017, the Foundation provided grants to the following partners:

- Miracle Flights – helped children and adults with rare and life-threatening conditions gain access to the distant, specialized medical care they need, by providing nearly 140 flights to-date.
- United Nation Foundation's Shot@Life – helped vaccinate 300,000 children in Latin America against measles for the third consecutive year.
- World Food Program USA – supported 800 pregnant and nursing women and young children in El Salvador, so they received proper nutrition during the first 1,000 days of life.

Increasing STEM Education

The Foundation seeks to feed curiosity and ignite imaginations through hands-on STEM education programs. The Foundation's STEM education program, Science WoRx® aims to address critical gaps in STEM education and set the next generation of scientists up for success. As of 2017, more than 53,000 schools across the U.S. received Science WoRx partner programming. The Foundation supported several STEM initiatives in 2017 including:

Rural Spark Project™

launched in 26 rural Illinois schools through a grant to Project Lead The Way (PLTW) as part of the 2017-2018 school year.

$1 million

Through the grant, more than

middle and high school students enrolled in one of PLTW's 32 STEM education programs focused on computer science, engineering, and biomedical science.

- iBIO Institute EDUCATE Center – introduced 200 girls to exciting opportunities in STEM as part of STEMgirls. Astellas employees further supported this effort by serving as the Foundation's Science WoRx® Mentors, by volunteering at the camps and sharing their success stories.
- Museum of Science and Industry – engaged 3rd-8th grade students in ongoing small group scientific exploration in their own neighborhoods through the After-School Science Club Network.

To support the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, in particular Goal #3 (Good Health and Well-Being), the Foundation works to address global access to health issues through our "Health and Well-Being" Living SMART® pillar. Our Patients

At Astellas, patients are at the center of everything we do. We actively collaborate with patients, patient advocacy organizations, professional associations, caregivers, employees, and others to help address patients' unmet needs and find new ways to improve patient experiences and outcomes.

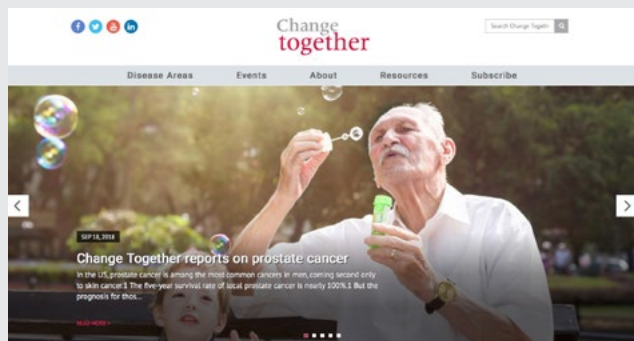

We seek to infuse the patient voice throughout everything we do. Here are some of the ways we facilitated a two-way dialogue with the patient community in 2017:

- The 2017 Patient Advocacy Summit brought together patient advocates and health policy leaders from across the U.S. and Canada to discuss how to elevate the patient voice in healthcare decision-making. Additionally, our Patient Advocates Advisory Committee meets regularly to build ideas, identify strategies and develop relationships to enable us to better understand and support the need of patients.
- Our Patient Experience team actively sought opportunities to work across functions to implement health literacy guidelines and training; improve the helpline service experience for patients and caregivers who contact Astellas; engage employees through an inaugural Patient and Caregiver Week event and launch the Astellas Patient Focus Experience workshop.
- Astellas' Medical and Development teams launched a new clinical trial awareness platform to ensure patients and caregivers have access to information about actively recruiting Astellas trials. The platform was developed with input from multiple stakeholders and with consideration of the average patient's health literacy level to help ensure the information was easy-to-understand.

CHANGE TOGETHER

Change Together is a dynamic, online resource, which creates opportunities to share information, inspiration, and ideas across the advocacy community. The Change Together community is a group of advocacy organizations who contribute to the Change Together website to foster patient-focused collaboration, share best practices and provide resources aimed at improving patient care.
